Navy Region Mid-Atlantic at your fingertips

Norfolk, Va – On Monday, Commander Navy Region Mid Atlantic (CNRMA) will introduce its first-ever mobile application, aimed at enhancing communication and support services for personnel across the region. The launch of the CNRMA app marks a significant milestone for CNRMA and represents a commitment to leveraging technology to improve efficiency and accessibility.

The new CNRMA app will provide users with a convenient platform to access a wide range of resources and information relevant to their needs. From important announcements and updates to local events and support services, the app aims to streamline communication and ensure that personnel have easy access to the information they require.

“One of my projects when I arrived to CNRMA was to get an app established for ease of communication throughout the Region. I am excited to say the rollout of the app is happening Monday,” said Rear Admiral Wes McCall, Commander Navy Region Mid-Atlantic. “The new capability will be available to everyone with a smart phone, and with a touch of a finger, you can learn more about our Navy installations.

A key feature of the app will be its ability to deliver timely notifications and alerts directly to users’ mobile devices with push notifications. Whether it’s information about upcoming training exercises or emergency notifications, the app will help ensure that personnel stay informed and prepared.

The introduction of the mobile app reflects CNRMA’s ongoing commitment to the quality of life of the sailors and their families. By embracing technology and exploring new ways to enhance communication and support services, CNRMA aims to better serve the needs of personnel throughout the Mid-Atlantic region.
